Healthy subjects needed for sleep and learning study

Researchers at the NYU School of Medicine are seeking healthy subjects in a study to understand the relationship between sleep and learning.

- Subjects will be asked to take a 2 hour nap at the NY Sleep Institute while EEG is being recorded, and spend the same amount of time awake. Subjects will also be given behavioral tasks.
- Subjects must be between 18-35 years of age and fluent in English. Subjects must not have a history of neurologic, psychiatric, or any sleep disorder.

Subjects will be compensated $15 per hour for participation.
